

ABSTRACT

In order to eliminate viewer's waiting time for downloading metadata on a network when enjoying hypermedia by combining videos in viewer's possession and the metadata, a client device holds video data, metadata related to the video data is recorded in a server device; the server device sends the metadata to the client device through the network at the request from the client device; and the client device processes the sent metadata, thus realizing hypermedia together with local video data.